A Committee of Two Hundred Body of Miss Minnie Waddell Will Urge Him to Attend the State Fair.

Chatham Manufacturing Com-"pany Trebles Capital and Will Build New Mill.

RALEIGH, N. C., August 20 .- An amendment to the charter of the Chatham Manufacturing Company, of Elkin, one of the largest and most prospercus State, Illed with the Secretary of State to-day a notice of amendment to their the company will be moved to Winston-Salem and a big now factory erected

The Elkin mills will be continued. The amendment also increases considerably the powers of the company, and increases the capital stock from $100,000 to Carolina State Fair, says there is every indication now that the effort being made to induce William Jennings Bryan to come to Raleigh as the guest of honor for the State Fair in October will be successful. A delegation of not less that two hundred of the foremest citizens of the State will go to New York for the great reception, and the matter of the visit to Raleigh will be urged upon the distinguished politician. Prepurations for the fair are well under way. Very considerable improvements are being made in the buildings and grounds, including anystem of water works, that has been siderable improvements are being made in the buildings and grounds, including a system of water works, that has been badly needed for many years. A number of counties have signified their intention to have county exhibits, and entries and applications already in hand assure the most complete and attractive displays in the history of the State Fair. Insurance Commissioner James II. Young issues another circular letter to North Carolina policyholders in the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York and the New York Life Insurance Company, insisting that they either come in person or send their proxies to Raleigh for the conference to be held September 12th, to decide on some plan of concerted action in the election of direc-

tember 12th, to decide on some plan of concorted action in the election of directors of the companies at the New York meeting. December 18th. He reiterates his urgent advice that policyholders send their policies or send their proxies to New York parties who are in many instances clamoring for them.

The Corporation Commission issued a statement this morning, in which it holds that its investigation of the condition of the Yadkin Raliroad, from Salisbury to Albemarle, shows that the complaints made, especially by citizens of Albemarle, are well founded in that the roadbed between Salisbury and Albemarle is almost impassable and dangerous to this lives of persons passing over it, wrecks occurring almost every trip, all because of the company, done, as the citizens complaining believe, to save the company the expense of necessary repairs. The commission declares that the railroad is not free from negligence in allowing the conditions to continue, and that they should be required to employ the necessary labor to make the needed changes in its condition.
